

LECTURE NO 6 & 7

HS-403: Management and Entrepreneurship

Engr. Tehseen Ahsan

Assistant Professor, Computer Engineering Department

HITEC University Taxila Cantt, Pakistan

Directing Employees

Lecture 6

What is Directing?

- Directing employees is a complex function that includes all those activities which are designed to encourage subordinates to work effectively and efficiently in both short and long-term.
- Directing includes:
 1. Issuing Orders.
 2. Giving Instructions.
 3. Guidance and Helping.
 4. Motivating Employees
 5. Designing Good Environment to Work.
 6. Providing Rewards etc.

Nature and Characteristics of Directing Employees

1. Dynamic Function

Directing is a dynamic and continuing function. A manager has to continuously direct, guide, motivate and lead his subordinates

2. Initiates Action

Directing initiates organized and planned action and ensures effective performance by subordinates towards the accomplishment of group activities.

3. Universal Function

Directing is a universal function that is performed in all organizations and at all levels of management. All managers have to guide, motivate, lead, supervise, and communicate with their subordinates.

4. Provides Necessary Link

Directing provides link between various Managerial Functions like Planning, Organizing, Staffing, and Controlling.

5. Concerned with Human Relationships

Directing function deals with relationship between people working in an organization.

Elements of Directing

1 - Leading

- It refers to an art of transferring facts, ideas, feeling, etc. from one person to another and making him understand them.
- A manager has to continuously tell his subordinates about what to do, how to do, and when to do various things.

1. Delegate Wisely

2. Set Goals

3. Coordination

4. Make time for Employees

5. Recognize Achievements

6. Think about lasting solutions.

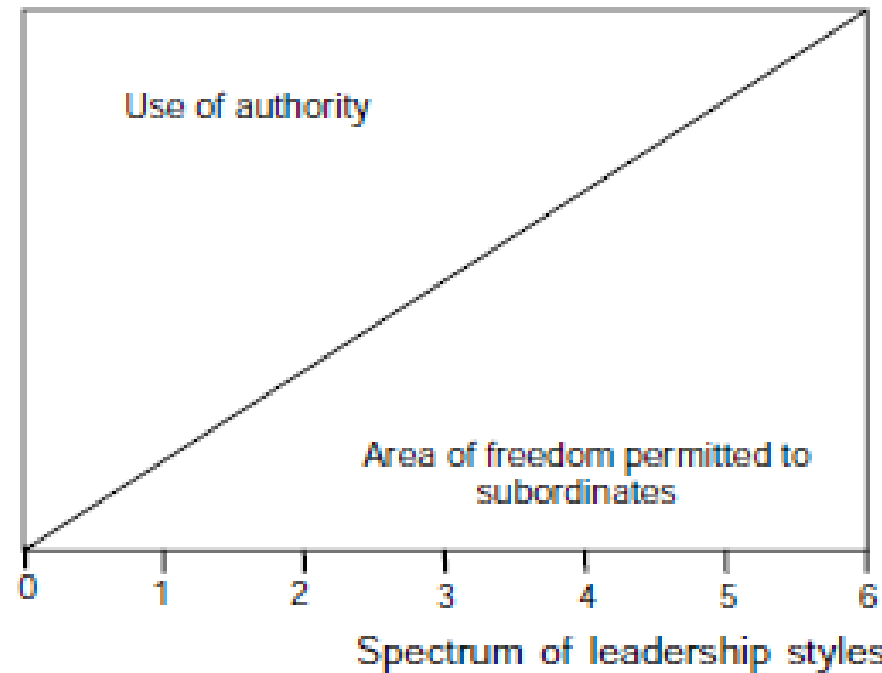

7. Don't take it all too seriously

Elements of Directing

1 - Leading

• Leadership Styles

Autocratic (Leader centered method)	Democratic (Participative method)	Free-rein (Employee centered method)
--	--------------------------------------	---

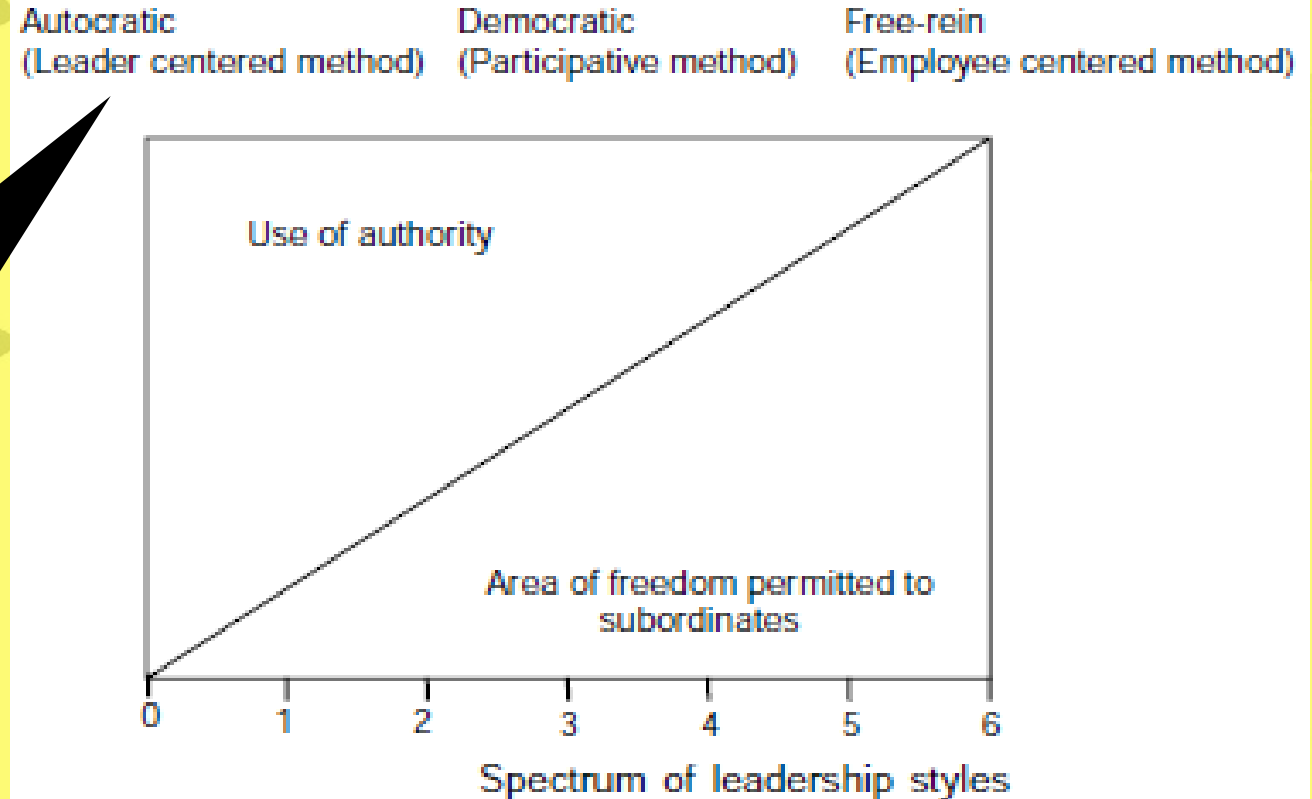

Elements of Directing

1 - Leading

- Leadership Styles

An autocratic leader is one who dominates and drives his subordinates through enforcement, command and the instilling of fear in his followers.

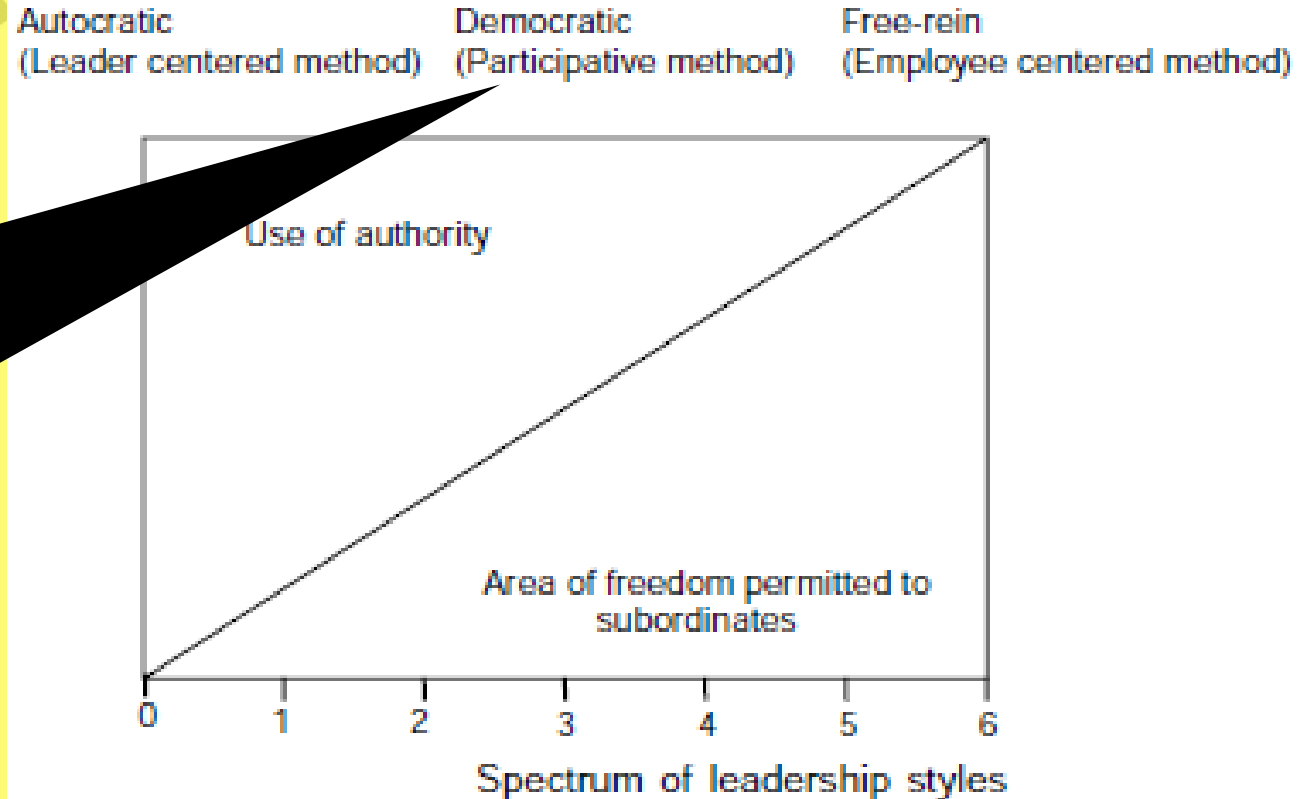

Elements of Directing

1 - Leading

- Leadership Styles

In this style, the entire group is involved in goal setting and achieving it. A democratic leader follows the majority opinion as expressed by his group. The leader shows greater concern for his people's interest, is friendly and helpful to them.

Elements of Directing

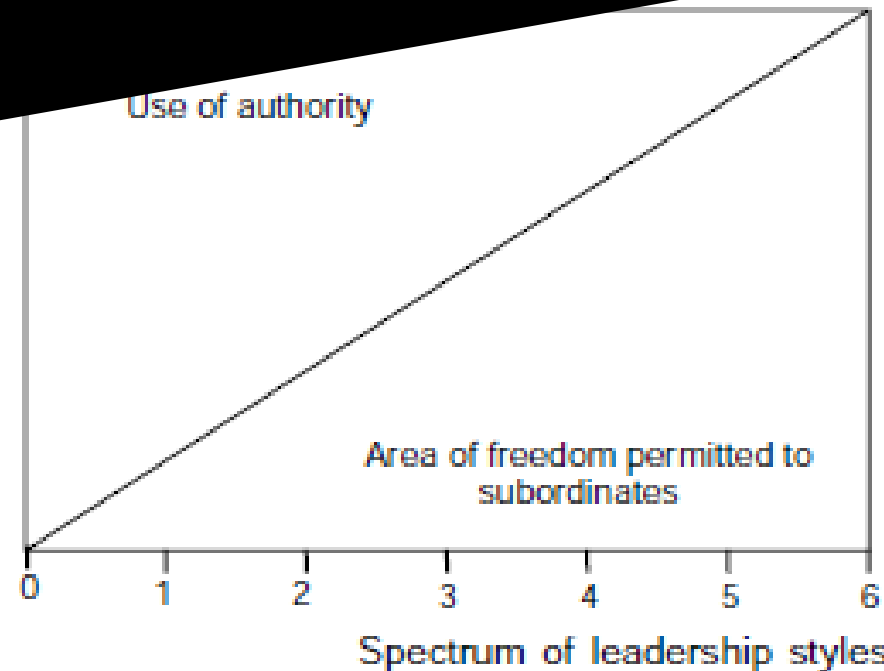

1 - Leading

- Leadership Styles

The leaders exercise absolutely no control. He only provides information, materials and facilities to his subordinates.

Leadership is employee centered. Leadership can be disaster if the leader does not know well the competence and integrity of his people and their ability to handle this kind of freedom.

Autocratic (Leader centered method)	Democratic (Participative method)	Free-rein (Employee centered method)
--	--------------------------------------	---

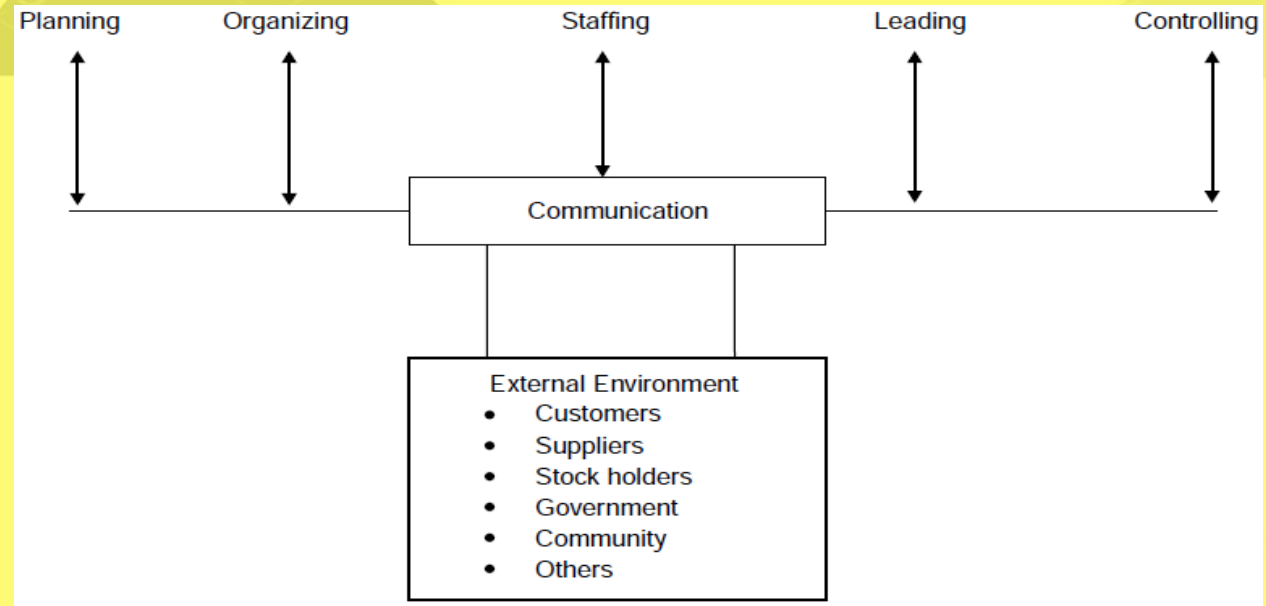

Elements of Directing

2 – Communication & Coordination

- Effective communication is a fundamental aspect of management and leadership. It plays a pivotal role in achieving organizational objectives, maintaining employee morale, and ensuring that teams work together cohesively.

Elements of Directing

2 – Communication & Coordination

- Coordination deals with the task of blending efforts in order to ensure successful attainment of an objective. It is accomplished by means of planning, organizing, directing and controlling.

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

- Motivation is inspiring the subordinates to contribute with zeal and enthusiasm towards organizational goals.
- Performance of an employee:

$$\text{Performance} = \text{Ability} \times \text{willingness}$$

- Motivation is enhancing the willingness to work which improves the performance.

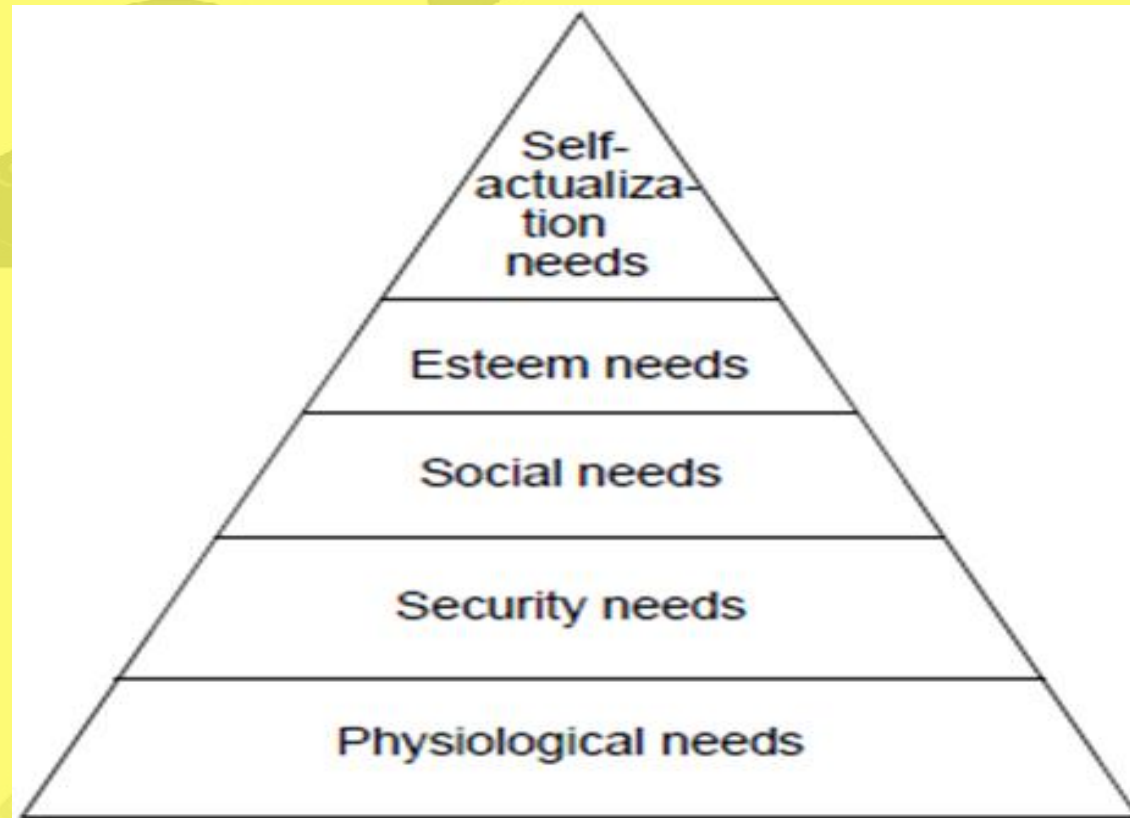

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

Maslow's Need Hierarchy Theory

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

Maslow's Need Hierarchy Theory

- Maslow proposed this theory in 1943 in his paper "A Theory of Human Motivation." According to Maslow, human needs can be categorized into a hierarchical structure, with each level building upon the one below. The hierarchy shown in previous slide is typically depicted as a pyramid with five levels, starting from the most basic physiological needs at the bottom and ascending to higher-level self-actualization needs.

1. Physiological Needs: Examples are: Food, Water, shelter, sleep, Physical well-being etc.
2. Security Needs: Examples are: Personal safety, Financial security etc.
3. Social Needs: Examples are: Love and affection from family and friends, Belonging to social groups etc.

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

Maslow's Need Hierarchy Theory

- 4. Esteem Needs: Examples are: Self-respect, Confidence, Achievement and recognition etc.
- 5. Self-Actualization Needs: Examples are: Creativity and self-expression, Fulfillment and realizing one's capabilities etc.

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

McClelland's Achievement Theory

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

McClelland's Achievement Theory

- McClelland's Achievement Theory, also known as the Three Needs Theory, was developed by American psychologist David McClelland in the 1960s. This theory focuses on the needs for achievement, power, and affiliation as fundamental drivers of human behavior and motivation

1. Need for Achievement:

- Prefer tasks that offer a moderate level of challenge.
- Seek opportunities for personal accomplishment and success.
- Enjoy feedback on his performance.
- Take pride in his successes.

Elements of Directing

3 - Motivation

McClelland's Achievement Theory

2. Need for Power:

- Enjoy leadership roles and decision-making authority.
- Desire to impact and shape his environment.
- Seek opportunities to mentor or guide others.

3. Need for Affiliation:

- Seek opportunities for social interaction.
- Avoid conflict and prefer harmony.
- Enjoy collaborative tasks.

Controlling Employees

Lecture 7

What is Controlling?

- Control is checking current performance against predetermined standards contained in the plans, with the view to ensuring adequate progress and satisfactory performance.
- Controlling is determining:
 - what is being accomplished,
 - evaluating the performance,
 - and if necessary applying corrective measures so that the performance takes place according to plans.

Steps in Controlling

1. Establishment of Standards

- Quantitative standards:
production level, labor hour, expense, profit
- Qualitative standards:
employee morale, company image, industrial relations

2. Measuring & Comparing Actual Performance with Standards

- Completion
- Objective
- Responsiveness

3. Take Corrective Measures

- Change in policy & procedures
- Training programs
- Job redesign
- Personnel replacement
- Reestablishing budgets.
- Better salary package
- Change in machinery or processes.

Methods of Establishing Control

Traditional Control Techniques

1. Budgetary control: written plan/program in monetary terms.
2. Standard costing: estimating most efficient cost of manufacturing a product.
3. Policies and Procedures
4. Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs)
5. Self and Group Control and Supervision.

Modern Control Techniques

1. Break Even Analysis.
2. Program Evaluation Review Technique (PERT).
3. Critical Path Method (CPM)
4. Statistical Quality Control (SQC)
5. Quality Circles
6. Disciplinary Action

References

- ❑ Based in part on materials by Ms. Samar Masood (Lecturer in Management Sciences in HITEC University Taxila Cantt).