

Question: How to write the minutes of a meeting?

Answer: The minutes of a meeting are a record of what happened, what was decided, and what actions will be taken as a result of the meeting. They should be written for every meeting, and presented at the next meeting or beforehand. Minutes should be written in the third person, for example, the minutes should say "The Court of Honor decided..." instead of "We decided...". The body of each topic should include the important points of the discussion and what action will be taken along with who will take the action and when it will be done. Someone who has never been to the meeting should be able to understand the minutes. Below is a generic set of minutes which shows the general format.

The minutes should start with the name of the committee that met and when and where the meeting was.

Venue and date of meeting

Minutes for the meeting January 10, 2004 at -----

Attendance

Everyone who is at the meeting must be mentioned in the attendance along with their position and contact information.

Opening

State who opened the meeting (the Chair), at what time, and any other details, such as the explanation for the absence of people.

Minutes of the Previous Meeting

The minutes of the last meeting should be read. Any changes or errors should be noted. The minutes have to be approved by the table.

Reports

Every executive member, chair of a subcommittee, or Patrol Leader should have the opportunity to report here on what they or their committee has been up to.

Old Business

Any topic of discussion which has been discussed before is done as part of Old Business.

New Business

Any topic that has not been discussed before should be discussed under New Business.

Description of meeting

Proposals and decisions

Adjournment

This section should include who closed the meeting, at what time, and the time and details of the next meeting, if one has been planned. The name of the person who took the minutes should appear at the bottom.

What is a memorandum?

ANS Memoranda are brief , informal reports used to establish a record. They generalize the communication process by transmitting the message from one or more authors to one or more recipients. E-mail messages typically take the form of memoranda.

Q#2 What are the internal purposes of memoranda?

ANS Memoranda are written for numerous internal purposes _____ for example

- to request information,
- to make announcements,
- to outline policies, and
- to transmit meeting minutes.

Q#3 How should we begin a memorandum?

ANS •The memorandum should normally begin with a brief summary statement, in one or two sentences, identifying the key topic and the scope of the memorandum.

Q#4 Which are the two principal meeting documents?

ANS •The two principal meeting documents are the agenda, which tells participants what topics will be discussed at the meeting, and minutes, which record what actually occurred.

Q#5 What are minutes?

ANS •Minutes can be formal or informal. •Formal minutes are often required by federal, state, or local law, by-laws, charters, or regulations. •They are usually distributed to the members of the group before the next meeting, and then approved (sometimes after being amended).

Q#6 What is a proposal?

ANS •In a proposal, identify a specific problem and state how you will solve that problem. •Most organizations rely on successful proposal writing for their continued existence. •You will most likely spend a major part of your professional life writing proposals.

Q#7 Give an outline of the structure of the proposal.

ANS Here is an outline of the proposal structure: • • Front matter • •Body • –Introduction • –Technical approach • –Management requirements • –Work plan • •End matter

Q#8 What is the importance of the letters.

ANS •Whereas the memorandum is the primary vehicle for communication within an organization, letters are often used to communicate to individuals outside it, especially in formal and semiformal contexts.

Q#9 How many types of letters are there?

ANS •The following are some of the most common types of letters written by people in technical fields. –Job application letters –Acceptance letters –Transmittal letters –Inquiry letters –Technical-information letters –Letters of recommendation

Q#10 Which are the elements of business letters?

ANS •Business letters have the following elements: –Heading –Date –Recipient's address –Salutation –Body –Closing –End notations

Q#11 What are Acceptance Letters?

ANS •Letters accepting a job not only convey information, but also establish a contractual relationship between you and the organization or person offering you the position. •Consequently, acceptance letters should accurately restate the key terms of employment.

Q#12 What are transmittal letters?

ANS •A transmittal or cover letter accompanies a larger item, usually a document. •The transmittal letter provides the recipient with a specific context in which to place the larger document and simultaneously gives the sender a permanent record of having sent the material.

Q#13 What is a letter of inquiry?

ANS •A letter of inquiry asks someone for specific information. •In some cases, such as a request for promotional material, the recipient will have a clear interest in responding to your letter.

Q# 14 Write a note on references and letters of recommendations.

ANS •References are an essential component of almost all admissions, grant, and employment processes. •Managers and other individuals in any selection process need evaluations from individuals who have had long and close contact with applicants in order to assess accurately their abilities and accomplishments. •The number of recommendations required by employers and universities usually ranges from one to five, with three being the most common number.

Question: Answer the five Ws that make the message clear.

Answer: The five Ws that make the message clear are the following: 1 who 2 what 3 when 4 where 5 why

Question: What are the seven Cs of effective communication?

Answer: The seven Cs of effective communication are the following: 1 completeness 2 conciseness 3 consideration 4 concreteness 5 clarity 6 courtesy 7 correctness

Why Proposals are written?

What are Proposals?